Source: thethegame.com.Q: How to get the latest image when using the PHP GD library? I've got a simple question and I really hope someone can help me with it. I'm using the PHP GD library to resize an image. The function works fine, but how can I get the newest image that I just resized? I mean, how can I get the image on the server? The image path is set in the config file. I'm currently saving the resized image into a temp directory and I can see the path to the file in the configuration file. But I'm not sure how to get the file on the server. Thanks! A: Assuming you are using the GD class provided by PHP (the GD library included in PHP) and you have access to a web server, simply do: This will just create a temporary file with the name of the image to download. If you want the image to be saved permanently, you can adjust the $new_image parameters appropriately.
